Michael Searching Bear, NAMA (Native American Music Awards) winner for Best World Recording and nominated artist - 2009, Aboriginal People's Choice Award nominee and Just Plain Folks Music Awards Album of the Year winner 2006, is an accomplished world musician whose love for music and search for his Native heritage led him to the Native American wood flute.

Michael incorporates the Native flute with his love and education for many traditional world cultural instruments including Celtic, Japanese, Native American and African, just to name a few, and creates a fusion of world instrumentation with a familiar underlying rhythm Michael is known for. Michael adds contemporary instrumentation when needed as well as modern dance and voice to give his audience not only a sonic experience but a visual experience as well.

Michael is an accomplished studio and stage drummer as well as a flute player with a "traditional" or "old" style sound. His flute playing incorporates many techniques that are unique to the traditional Native style. Barks, chirps, trills and other techniques which often mimic sounds heard in nature are not uncommon and weave their way through the melodies. "I've always played the flute this way", Michael states. "It's as if it has been inside of me all my life. This is how I have always heard the flute in my mind. I have a vague memory of certain sounds from my childhood. One of those was the flute. I searched for many years to find the instrument that was the sound I heard in my memories. Then one day I happened to be doing a search on the Internet, of all places, and came across a sound clip. I knew instantly that this was the sound I was looking for and so began my journey to find this instrument. It was the Native American wood flute and I've been in love with this instrument ever since."

With over 40 years of experience in music as a drummer and percussionist, Michael has developed his talents and perfected his gift for mastering intricate rhythms. Through private study, Michael increased his knowledge of the electric, acoustic and classical guitars, as well as music theory and ethnomusicology. With this knowledge, Michael incorporates as many different types of instruments into his recording compositions – especially Native cultural instruments. Michael began incorporating the Native American flute music in 1996. His original compositions can be heard in his CD's, 2006 Just Plain Folks Award winning album of the year Voice from Within (2003) and the 2006 Native American Music Awards (NAMA) nominated Un earthed (2005). Fans can also enjoy Michael's NAMA nominated concert DVD, Michael Searching Bear Live in Concert (2007) along with his latest NAMA winning CD for Best World Recording release, Ceremony (2009). Michael's latest release is his world fusion journey, Goin Home (2013).

Of Cherokee and Powhatan descent, Michael considers himself to be a cultural traditionalist and desires to pass on the traditions of the Native American wood flute. Michael has followed his heart and now teaches about the ancient and contemporary methods of flute construction and uses of the flute in the Native ways of life. His informal classes and workshops are taught in a variety of settings and to literally all age groups; from toddler daycare centers and college level workshops; to a variety of churches, schools and community organizations. Dedicating his life to educating and teaching about his Native culture, he uses his expertise in the flute as a catalyst for this training.

Nearly a lost art, the Native American wood flute is experiencing resurgence in popularity. The haunting melodies and soothing tones have found a wide and accepting audience in today's hectic society. Michael has been appearing in concerts to selected audiences throughout the country and brings the music of the flute to the public.

Michael is currently available for performance booking engagements as well as workshops, lectures, concerts and other performances. Testimonials from CD listeners:

Michael Searching Bear's newest release "Goin Home" is an amazing sonic adventure that captures the essence of music meeting pure magic. His multi instrumental talent shines in these 12 new pieces. Each one a carefully bejeweled kaleidoscope inviting the listener to peer inside and take away a view for themselves.

Though primarily a flute creator, player and percussionist, Michael picks up other instruments, masters them and uses them in his compositions as easily as an artist picks up spare brushes. His addition of sprinkled guitars through out and especially a gorgeous dulcimer in New Baktun rewards the listener with gorgeous road markers for the listening journey.

Having a great ear for arranging, Michael seems to always know when to "stop" adding "more", the songs leave the right amount of space to let the listeners imagination soar along with the peaks and troughs . These are not just "songs", each piece is a stand alone work of art that can be plucked out of the group and held on its own for enjoyment like an intriguing piece of glasswork. Morning Aurora and After The Storm leave me with new impressions everytime I listen to them.

For those listening to Michael's music for the first time one is met with elements of his Native American heritage carefully woven through.

Michael never resorts to the cliché "New Age-y" gimmicks that permeates a lot of the "heritage" music on the market. You can feel his constant pushing of himself and the limits of sound color to stretch a broader canvas over himself and his listeners, constantly widening a door to invite the curious to follow along with his searching.

This is a cd that you can let play in the background to surround yourself with the spell of tone changing moods or delve into like a great chamber work with the glory of all its layers. I find myself suprised by a beautiful choral line that gently bubbles up from a a mysterious backdrop or can feel my pulse connecting with a clay shaker that steadily rebounds off a soulful drum.

If you are looking for that one Cd this year that rewards you with something new in every listening, this is it. Michael Searching Bear is not only a flutist and percussionist but a composer who is one of the few that understands that music is a journey to share with a listener.

Get the Cd and wander along on a journey searching for the wonderous.

Kenneth Leonard - Pirate Alley Studios, New Orleans

Promontory from Ceremony CD: It was a strongly evocative piece with a satisfying and original combination of Native American and Irish flavors. The blend of those flavors was well balanced, with the underlying percussion groove and flute sound leaning more towards the Native American and the flute playing and scale used sounding more Irish. The flute work was the most distinctive aspect of the arrangement. The piece had a nice dynamic build to it, subtly adding layers at a time and ramping up the intensity. Great job on this, Michael!!

Craig Streaman, Manager, A&R, TAXI

Just wanted to tell you that I thoroughly enjoyed your show on Friday night at Kent Stage. I have been to many concerts in all parts of the world, but that one was probably the most inspiring, well done, sincerely, it was a fantastic show.

Terence Richardson

Michael Searching Bear has brought forth his best work to date! His artistic talent, ingenuity and passion for detail speaks for itself in his new work titled "Ceremony". Michael has always had a gift for bridging cultures together to unite in harmony the common whole; the human race. Today the real purity lies in your heart, intention and actions. It is for this that Michael's compassion exemplifies the true noble character of the "Good Red Road". Thank you Michael for such extraordinary work...

Review for Ceremony CD

Eric Wolf-Windseeker - Native Voice

Acoustic guitar, bull roarer, didgeridoo...PLUS Michael Searching Bear on the Native American Flute???! Heck, I would have just taken Michael on the flute and Windwalker on the vocals and gladly forked over the dough...but Michael throws in those other wonderful (and amazingly complementary) instruments as well, done with grace and aplomb, and you've got a one-of-a-kind blend of contemporary and traditional sounds. Didn't think he could outdo "Voice From Within" ...I was wrong!!

Tom Kerr - Executive Director, Kulture Kids.

Greetings! I just had to write: wow! Cd arrived, & I finally got a chance to listen, I sat down, & worked on a gourd rattle. What gems you & yours are! Let me tell you, I have quite a collection of flute music by R. Carlos, & Spotted Eagle, etc. & I have just found my new favorite art music

(I call it that because in order to keep my heart open while I work, I listen to music that brings light to me). ...Thank you! Again, awesome cd! Thanks for the gift! Sincerely, Cynthia - Proprietor, Picture Rocks Art

I wanted to write you again and congratulate you on a fabulous job with "Unearthed". When I first heard it, I was very glad to hear how well you fused together two cultures without taking away the integrity of either one. It was a perfect balance - two ages apart by hundreds of years, yet brought together in perfect harmony. That's the beauty of music, it has no date. The Vision and Mother Bear stand out, as I believe, the awesome potential of your music talent coupled with your deep interconnection with our native culture. As I heard The Vision, the haunting voices along with the rising musical panorama left me in shock and awe. I could not help to envision a story of struggle, change and growth. To which I later realized that the story behind this song was very much as I envisioned it. Mother Bear then stepped in to top-off the climax of the story - an amazing work. Your tireless dedication to our culture along with your musical talent is going to be well remembered long after this production. As stated earlier - it's timeless. Well done my friend...

Sincerely, Eric Wolf Windseeker

Un Earthed is superb, it touched my heart! Listening to Un Earthed took me on a wonderful heartfelt journey. The blend of Native American Flute with Contemporary instruments is awesome. Appalachian Sunrise is so soothing to my soul, and The Vision is that wonderful blend of cultures, fantastic. Many thanks to you, Michael, for this awesome CD. Mary Jo Green

Hello from the far East..

I received the CD Friday and I spent the weekend listening to it. In comparison to the CD's I own from AH-Nee-Mah, Douglas Spotted Eagle, Douglas Blue Feather etc... , yours is by far the most native of all. You went back to the original native style using the drum beats, shakers and other native instruments -- beautiful. The others I own mix contemporary New Age backgrounds which give it a relaxing touch, but yours concentrates on the flute itself. No studio tricks to drown it among keyboards, and no excessive reverb or delay. Fantastic work! I also noticed you toyed around with half holes as well as the big drone flutes, which gave it a unique character. The native language did great as well. Thank you! Eric "Boone" Rodriguez

Thank you for the wonderful CD. The music is absolutely beautiful. We had it on playing in the background all weekend. Very soothing yet VERY interesting melodies and subtle rhythms. Gorgeous. Love the recording quality. Very well done. The flutes sound stunning. Very haunting and warm. Kenneth Leonard - recording producer/engineer for Lou Reda Corp.(History Channel / Dancetime USA)

I loved your CD. I've played it five times already (no joke) and the truth is I liked it when I first heard it, but I like it better and better with each listening. Terrific, beautiful work. What I like best is that it seems like you're right there in the room playing. And it's not "over-produced" with a lot of extra studio crap that might sound impressive but actually take away from the instrument. The simplicity and purity of the flutes come through as clear as the water of the mountain rivers I can see in my mind as you play. OK, that may sound corny, but that IS how it felt for me. Congrats many times over on a wonderful accomplishment. I'm telling EVERYONE about it!---. Tom Kerr, Executive Director, Kulture Kids.

Michael - I don't pass out compliments readily, but your CD is one of the best I've ever heard. Great heart! Blessings! Jim Curley - Mountain Music Shoppe - Mountain Music Shoppe web site

Michael, Your CDs are fantastic! After I listened to Voice from Within last night, I sat there --- quietly stunned. I wasn't sure what had just happened, but I knew something did. Then I realized that I felt more grounded into my "Native-ness" - except I don't have any. Yet it was a pretty wonderful feeling! The second CD was more like a journey somehow.....esp. Silent Journey and Canyon's Edge. I really liked the feelings I had, although I can't exactly describe them to you just yet. I experienced a lot for a first-time run-through! Some songs I totally understood or identified with, and others, like Mother Bear Song, I couldn't get a handle on. I'll just keep becoming more familiar with your music and see what happens! So, I'll just continue to listen and learn on my own for now. I must say that I thoroughly enjoyed listening to Windwalker's voice. It's beautiful, strong and clear. Very soothing, too. "Thank you, Windwalker." Joen Bozarth
